JULY

"Today as I walked along the sandy track on the top of the ridge, every sense responded to the fascinations of the season, and my eyes and ears and nose were all keenly awake to the delights around me."

Behold my Breath

In and out,
fast or slow,
I feel my breath,
but can't see it go
When winter arrives
my breath
comes alive
In and out,
fast or slow,
in the cold winter
air,
my breath is there
to behold.
